

The Bruckner Orchester Nagoya Project

By John F. Berky

Occasionally, a series of recordings will stand out in a discography that deserves special mention. Such is certainly the case with Bruckner Orchester Nagoya of Nagoya, Japan. Since 1996, this intrepid ensemble has been slowly but consistently performing and recording the symphonies of Anton Bruckner.

While I have very little information about the orchestra, it appears that they have an annual concert where (with few exceptions) Bruckner appears on the program. To date, this is what the orchestra has accomplished:

Concert #	Date	Conductor	Composition	CD Catalog #

18	17.06.12	Shinji Moriguchi	Overture in g	BON 033/034
19	30.06.13	Shinji Moriguchi	Symphony # 1	BON 035/036
20	29.06.14	Shinji Moriguchi	Symphony # 9	BON 037/038
21	28.06.15	Shinji Moriguchi	Symphony # 7	BON 039/040
22	26.06.16	Shinji Moriguchi	March in D Minor Three Orchestra Pieces	BON 041
23	18.06.17	Shinji Moriguchi	Symphony # 3	BON 042/043
24	24.06.18	Shinji Moriguchi	Symphony # 8	BON 043/044

It is hoped that more information can be obtained to document the remarkable project that this orchestra has undertaken. As of this writing, the orchestra has essentially performed and recorded all 11 symphonies of Bruckner plus the Overture, the Three Orchestral Pieces and the March in D Minor and is now proceeding to perform symphonies for the second or third time!
