

7

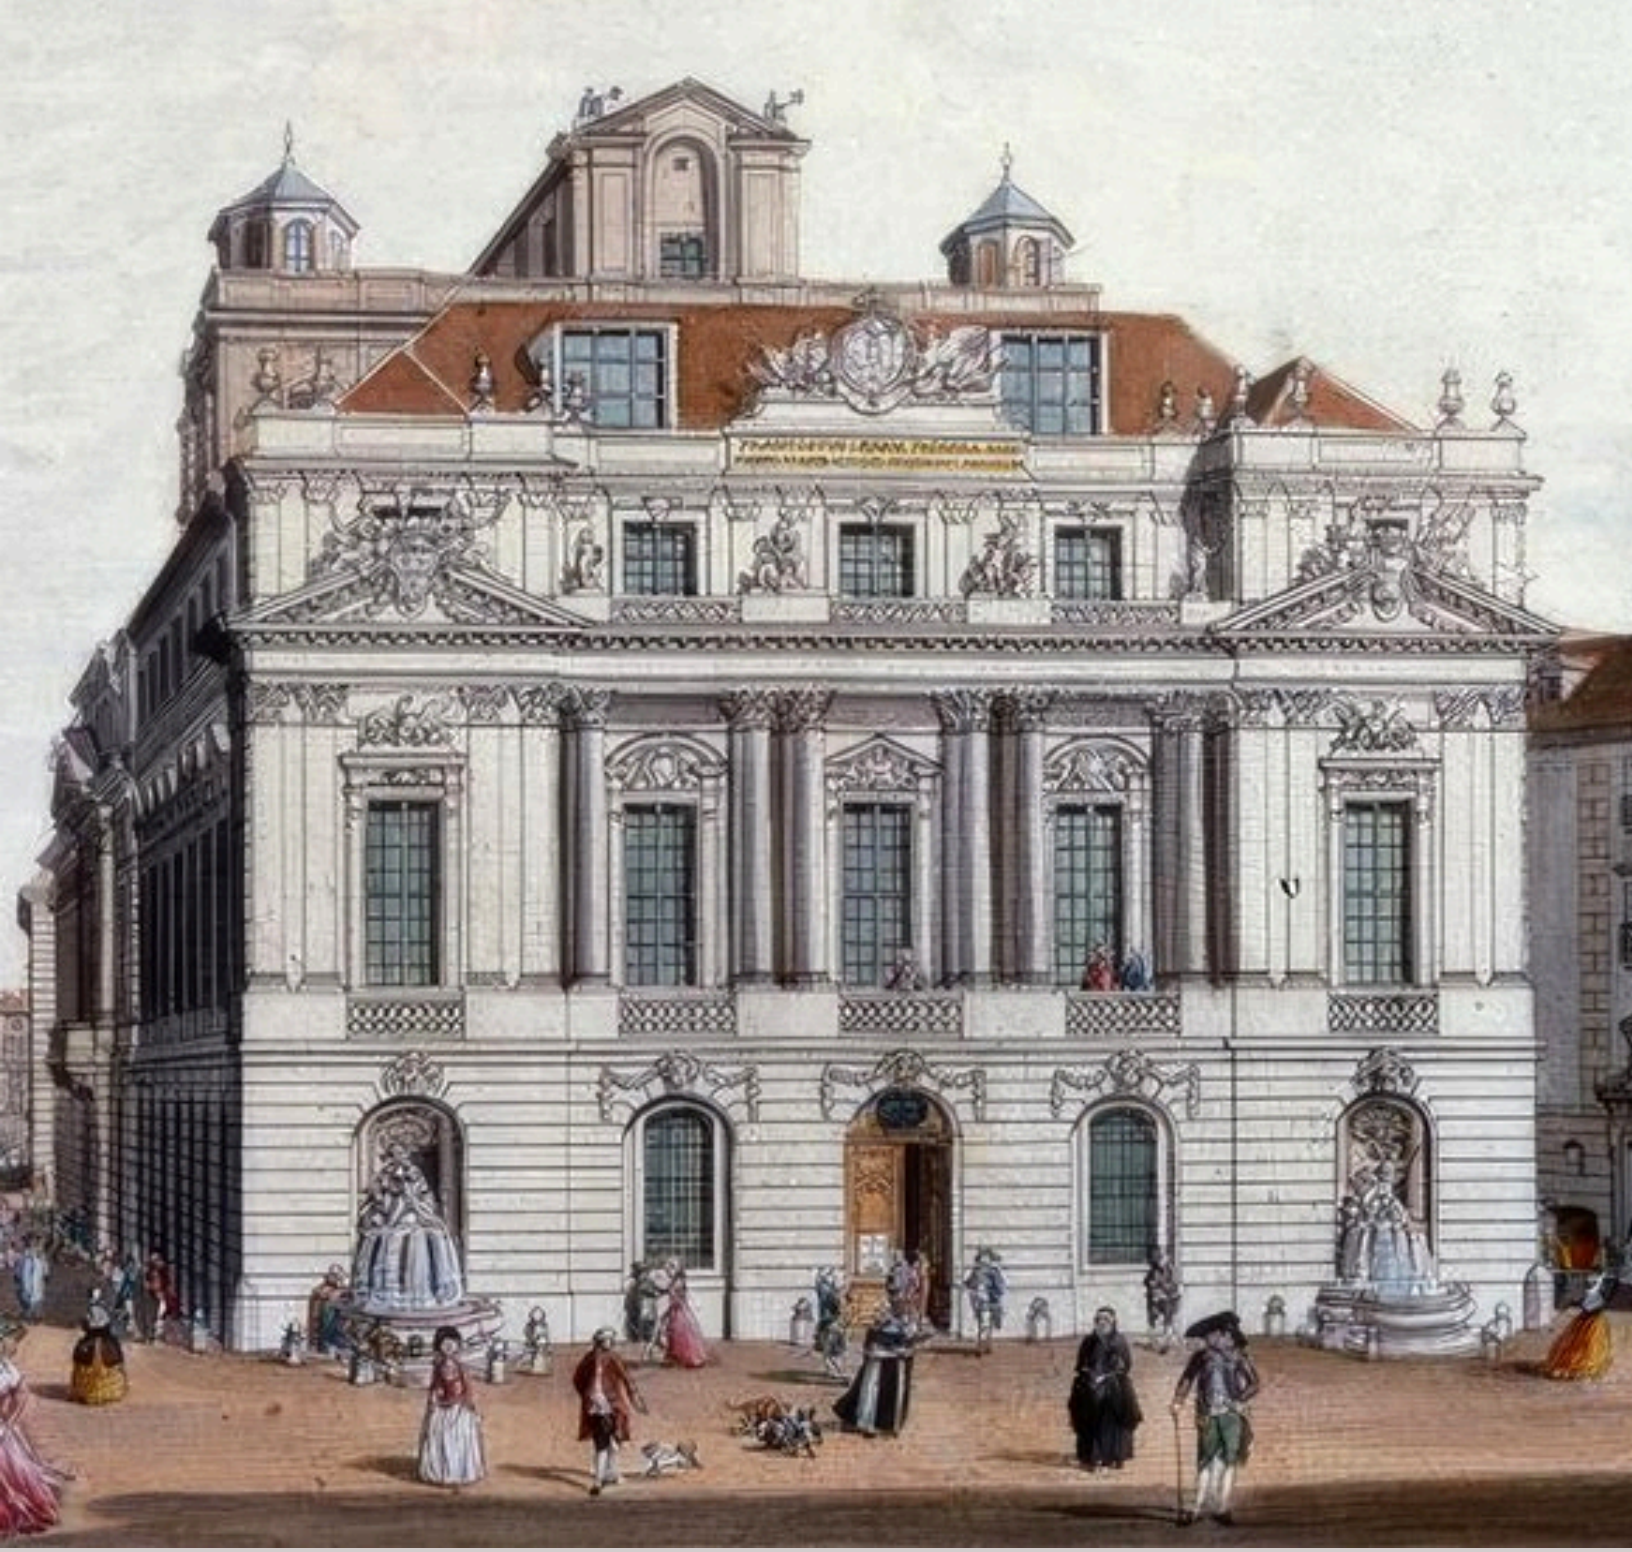

Old University square

New " Aula " on University Square (1759) wirh astronomical observatory on the roof

Fascinated by the universe and by astronomy, Anton Bruckner was able to satisfy his insatiable curiosity for " natural sciences ", when he met distinguished scholars during his tenure at the Old University of Vienna. It is very likely that he visited the observatory on the roof of the " New Aula " facing the " Jesuit College " (where he was lecturing on Mondays) .

New " Aula " on University Square (1790) wirh astronomical observatory on the roof

Fascinated by the universe and by astronomy, Anton Bruckner was able to satisfy his insatiable curiosity for " natural sciences ", when he met distinguished scholars during his tenure at the Old University of Vienna. It is very likely that he visited the observatory on the roof of the " New Aula " facing the " Jesuit College " (where he was lecturing on Mondays) .

Old University square : the new Aula - the Jesuit church - the Jesuit college

The Faculty of Philosophy is located on the third floor of the Jesuit college. It is occupied by the Dean's office, the Dean's room, a professor's office, the registry, and five lecture halls : n° VIII to XII.

Professor Bruckner gives his Monday evening harmony and conterpoint lectures in hall n° VIII.

Austrian Academy of Sciences Campus, Dr.-Ignaz-Seipel-Platz (proposed access via the Old Jesuit College)

ÖAW

AUSTRIAN ACADEMY OF SCIENCES

The Old Aula was directly connected to the Jesuit College via accessible arched ways, which allowed the monks, the teachers, and the students to be protected from the weather.

Old University square : the Jesuit Church and, on the right, the Jesuit College

Old University square : the Jesuit Church and, on the right, the Jesuit College

Old University square : the Jesuit Church and, on the right, the Jesuit College

the Jesuit Church on the Old University square

the Jesuit Church on the Old University square

the Jesuit Church on the Old University square

organ of the Jesuit Church

organ of the Jesuit Church

organ of the Jesuit Church

organ of the Jesuit Church

universität wien

the Vienna University Archive in the old Library building the Collegium ducale (the previous medieval building on this site) had been the main university building since 1385

the street behind is Schönlaterngasse - in the background, a section of the Jesuit College which was incorporated into the university in 1623