Preface

The length and technical demands of Anton Bruckner's major works, coupled with a long-standing prejudice against his music among many performers, delayed acceptance of his compositions in the United States. Augmented by open-reel tapes, cassette tapes, compact discs, and now videodiscs, phonograph records had much to do with making Bruckner's music better appreciated in this country. By cataloging information about commercial recordings of Bruckner's works, this discography documents the rapid surge in enthusiasm for a body of work that many listeners now rank with the finest musical art of the nineteenth century.

While my goal was to catalog all issues in all formats of all recordings of Bruckner's music, practical considerations have limited this catalog's scope. I have included all recordings known to me but have described in detail only the earliest issue physically available for my review. Reissues, earlier issues inaccessible to my research, and parallel issues in other formats are noted only by label, number, and format. Also, I have chosen to disregard the country of origin of each issue. Considering the truly international scope of most record distribution companies, it makes little sense to identify a particular item as French or Japanese when it is as readily obtainable in the U.S.A. or in Great Britain and when it may be distributed by a firm based in the Netherlands. I have included information about the location at which the recording was made, however.

This discography documents as fully as possible nearly eight hundred performances of Bruckner's music, ranging from 1930's recordings on 78-rpm discs through currently available digital video material. Preferring in all cases to deal with primary source material rather than to rely upon other discographies, I have drawn most heavily upon the extensive collection of recordings belonging to the California Friends of Bruckner. I have also inspected recorded materials at the libraries of the University of California at Berkeley and at Davis, at the California State University library in Sacramento, and at the Stanford University Library and Archive of Recorded Sound in Stanford, California.

Mr. Michael Grey of the Smithsonian Institution read, corrected, and amplified the entire working catalog in 1989, and I am most grateful to him for his generous and accurate assistance. Most of the information relating to recent Japanese recordings was contributed by Mr. Grey. The pioneering discography of J. F. Weber was invaluable to me, serving as the inspiration for this project and setting a high standard of quality that I have sought to emulate. Other secondary sources of information are noted in the bibliography.

Preface

In the main part of the discography, recordings are presented by performing medium: vocal and choral works, chamber music, organ pieces, and orchestral works. Within these groups, pieces appear in the same order as in Renate Grasberger's index (Werkverzeichnis A. Bruckner, Tutzing: Hans Schneider, 1977), resulting in a mostly alphabetical and logical sequence. Recordings of the same work by various performers are arranged alphabetically by conductor, or by ensemble in the case of chamber music, or by soloist in the case of organ music. This information appears in coded form as a catalog number preceding each entry. Individual entries give, as appropriate, the following information in this sequence:

- conductor (or soloist)
- principal performing ensemble
- secondary ensemble (usually a chorus)
- soloists (listed in normal score order)
- place and date of the original recording
- the editor's name
- year in which the version used was completed
- record label and number
- recording format ("digital" is reserved to describe the first stage of the recording process)
- number of sides used for this selection
- year in which this issue was released
- primary source location
- timings (total time followed by that of each movement)
- annotators
- other music appearing on the record
- parallel issues (LP disc(s) unless otherwise indicated)

Information about the sources for the dates of the original recording and its release is conveyed via abbreviations preceding each year cited: "W." refers to J. F. Weber's discography (Discography Series X: Bruckner, Utica, New York: J. F. Weber, 1975); "p." indicates a phonoright date, "©" a copyright date, usually appearing on the record package or associated notes; entries without abbreviations, often with a specific month given, draw on specific statements given on the record jacket; "ca." indicates an estimate, based usually on indirect evidence appearing on a recording, such as biographical information relating to a performer.

In the matter of the editions employed, I have given a brief description of the chief versions of each piece before the initial entry. This is limited to identifying the city where Bruckner completed each version, followed by the date, the Grasberger catalog number (WAB), and the formerly used catalog number from the Göllicher/Auer biography (G/A) (Anton Bruckner: Ein Lebens- und Schaffensbild, Regensburg: Gustav Bosse Verlag, 1922). Each individual entry then gives the year of the version employed in the recording and the editor's name, when known. In many cases identifying the edition is immaterial, because no significant differences exist among the various modern sources. This is true with respect to Symphonies Nos. 5, 6, 7, and 9, the chamber music, the organ pieces, and most of the choral music. Thus a lack of information in this regard should not be a cause for concern. I have otherwise identified editions by noting references on the record jacket or liner notes, by checking citations in other discographies, or by comparing the recording to published scores.

Richard Osborne provides an up-to-date, authoritative discussion of the editions, together with a selective, critical discography, in an article in Gramophone (August 1991).

Conductors tend to interpolate passages from several different scores, further complicating the identification of the version employed. The best that one can do under these circumstances is to identify the principal version and edition employed. Also, I have made no attempt to distinguish among relatively obscure variants, such as those found in the 1936 and 1944 printings of the Haas edition of the 1876 version of Symphony No. 5. Critics have used and continue to use a large vocabulary to cite various versions: "original version," "definitive version," "first definitive version," and "revised version" are among the most common terms. While such language may be employed with greater consistency now that the critical edition is nearing completion, I have elected to avoid such labels in favor of simply stating the year in which a version was completed, together with the editor's last name.

An index by conductor refers the user to all orchestral and choral recordings using the catalog numbers described above. Birth and death dates for conductors are given, together with the composition title, ensemble, record label, and year of recording. Also provided is an index of annotators, which lists the music discussed in each article, the record label and number, the release date of the recording, and the catalog number. A chronology of recordings based upon the year in which the performance was recorded cites title, performers, and catalog number. The orchestra index summarizes each ensemble's recording activity.

Names of performing ensembles are given in a standardized English format, except in cases like the Staatskapelle Dresden, for which no common English translations have appeared on records. Similarly (and despite the welter of mergers and acquisitions among record companies and the practice of sister firms distributing the same recordings in various countries under differing labels), label names are restricted to few variations and are given in full, with the exception of Deutsche Grammophon, which is abbreviated DG.

Timings may vary somewhat due to inherent difficulties in determining exactly when a movement begins and ends. Generally speaking, timings measured by me begin with the first audible tone of the composition and end when the last sound has died away. Audience applause and pauses between movements are not included in the timings. I have noted cases where timings vary significantly from information printed on the record jacket or liner notes.

Although my goal has been to provide a useable reference work, apprehendable without much explanation, I have included a list of abbreviations. The meaning of most of these will be obvious or at least entirely logical, I hope, to all readers. Suggestions for improvements in future editions of this work and, especially, corrections are most welcome. Please address such correspondence to the author, in care of Fallen Leaf Press, P.O. Box 10034, Berkeley, California 94709 USA.

Appreciation is also due my editor, Ann Basart, for her patience and guidance in seeing this project through, and to my wife, Helen, who assisted in timing many of the recordings and who encouraged me through fifty-eight performances of Symphony No. 4.

While it had occurred to me to provide the reader with my own recommendations on the various recordings cited herein, I have foregone such a personal indulgence. In an approach to justifying that decision let me cite my favorite recording, surely unrepresentative of the opinion of most critics, of Symphony No. 9: the 1965 performance of the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Zubin Mehta. To record collectors, recorded sound librarians, and to all listeners who have come to know the great diversity and beauty of Anton Bruckner's music, I dedicate this effort.

Vorwort

Die Länge und die technischen Anforderungen der Hauptwerke Anton Bruckners in Verbindung mit einem unter vielen Künstlern alten Vorurteil gegen seine Musik haben besonders in den U.S.A. den Empfang seiner Kompositionen gehindert. Nebst Tonbandaufnahmen, Musikkassetten, Compact Discs und jetzt Video Discs haben die Langspielplatten das hiesige Land so stark beeinflußt, daß Bruckners Musik allmählich viel höher geschätzt wird. Folgender Katalog lieferbarer Aufnahmen von Bruckners Musik dokumentiert den schnellen Aufschwung der Begeisterung über ein Gesamtwerk, das ein zahlreiches Publikum jetzt zu der schönsten musikalischen Kunst des neunzehnten Jahrhunderts zählt.

Obwohl es mein Ziel war, alle Aufnahmen von Bruckners Musik in allen Ausgaben und in allen Formaten in ein Verzeichnis aufzunehmen, ist der Bereich dieses Katalogs wegen praktischen Anforderungen beschränkt. Alle mir bekannten Aufnahmen sind eingeschlossen, aber nur die früheste vorhandene Ausgabe jeder Aufnahme wird ausführlich beschrieben. Neuausgaben, frühere aber nicht vorhandene Ausgaben, und Parallelausgaben in anderen Formaten erscheinen nur mit Schallplattenmarke und -nummer und Format. Auch wird das Land, wo die Ausgabe erscheint, nicht identifiziert. Weil die meisten Schallplattenfirmen jetzt wahrlich international handeln, ist es ziemlich sinnlos, eine einzelne Schallplatte z.B. als französisch oder als japanisch zu identifizieren, wenn derselbe Artikel in den USA oder in Großbritannien erhältlich ist, und wenn die Vertriebsfirma niederländisch sein mag. Genaue Auskünfte über Aufnahmeorte sind aber doch eingeschlossen.

Annähernd achthundert Aufführungen von Bruckners Musik werden so genau wie möglich dokumentiert, einschließlich Schallplatten von 78 Drehzahl pro Minute aus den dreißiger Jahren bis auf jetzt verfügbare Materialien in Digital-Video-Format. Wennmöglich und in allen Zwischenfällen habe ich mich auf ursprüngliche Quellen verlassen, insbesondere auf die ausgedehnte Aufnahmensammlung der California Friends of Bruckner in Sacramento. Auch habe ich Schallplatten in den Bibliotheken der University of California zu Berkeley und zu Davis, in der Musikbibliothek der California State University in Sacramento, und in der Stanford University Library and Archive of Recorded Sound in Stanford (Kalifornien) untersucht.

1989 hat Herr Michael Grey von der Smithsonian Institution die frühe Handschrift dieses Katalogs großmütig durchgehend geprüft, korrigiert, und weiter ausgeführt, wofür ich ihm herzlich danke. Die meisten Auskünfte über die neuerlichen japanischen Aufnahmen werden von Herrn Grey beigetragen. Die bahnbrechende Bruckner-Discographie von J.F. Weber war für die vorliegende Arbeit unentbehrlich. In ihrer Vollkommenheit und Genauigkeit diente sie mir sowohl als Motivation und als Vorbild. Andere Informationsquellen findet man in der Bibliographie.

Im Hauptteil der Discographie werden die Aufnahmen im allgemeinen nach Aufführungsmitteln präsentiert: Lieder und Chorwerke, Kammermusik, Orgelstücke, und Orchesterwerke. Innerhalb dieser Gruppen erscheinen die einzelnen Stücke serienmäßig nach dem Verzeichnis von Renate Grasberger, eine meistens alphabetische und logische Reihenfolge ergebend. Aufnahmen gleicher Werke von verschiedenen Aufführenden findet man hauptsächlich nach Dirigent, beziehungsweise bei Kammermusik nach Ensemble und bei Orgelmusik nach Solisten geordnet. Solche Angaben erscheinen verschlüsselt als Katalogziffern vor jedem Vermerk.

Einzelne Vermerke zeigen, wenn zweckmäßig, nach der nachstehenden Reihenfolge diese Informationen:

- Dirigent (oder Solist)
- aufführendes Ensemble
- eventuell mitwirkendes Ensemble
- Solisten (der normalen Partiturfolge nach)
- Ort und Datum der ursprünglichen Aufnahme
- Fertigungsjahr der gebrauchten Version und Herausgeber
- Quelle
- Schallplattenmarke und -nummer
- Aufnahmeformat ("digital" beschreibt ausschließlich die erste Phase des Aufnahmeverfahrens)
- Zahl der für dieses Stück benützten Plattenseiten
- Jahr der Plattenausgabe
- Zeitdauer (Totaldauer zuerst, dann die Dauer der einzelnen Sätze)
- Autor(en) der Erläuterungen
- andere Werke auf dem Tonträger

Quellenauskünfte für die Daten der ursprünglichen Aufnahme und für die Schallplattenausgaben versteht man durch die Abkürzungen, die vor jedem Datum stehen: "W." weist auf J.F. Webers Discographie hin; "p." bedeutet ein Phonorechts-Datum, "©" ein Urheberrechts-Datum, gewöhnlich auf dem Umschlag oder auf zugehörigen Bemerkungen; keine Abkürzung, oft mit genauem Monat vor dem Jahre, bedeutet ein auf exacter Anmerkung auf dem Umschlag basierendes Datum; "ca." heißt eine Vermutung, welche häufig auf einer indirekten Aufzeichnung beruht (z.B.: auf biographischen Informationen über einen Künstler).

Bezüglich der aufgenommenen Ausgaben wird dem Leser eine kurze Beschreibung der wichtigsten Fassungen jedes Stückes vor dessen erstem Vermerk gegeben. Solche Schilderungen beschränken sich auf den Ort, wo Bruckner die Version gefertigt hatte, das betreffende Datum, die Grabberger'sche Katalogziffer (WAB), und die Katalogziffer aus der Göllerich-Auer-Biographie (G/A). Danach zeigt jeder einzelne Vermerk nach dieser Werkbeschreibung das Herkunftsjahr der auf dieser Aufnahme gebrauchten Version und womöglich den Namen des Herausgebers. In manchen Fällen ist die Identifizierung der Ausgabe unwesentlich, denn die verschiedenen gedruckten modernen Quellen unterscheiden sich nur in geringstem Maße. Das gilt für die Sinfonien 5, 6, 7 und 9 sowie für die Kammermusik, die Orgelwerke, und die Mehrzahl der Chormusik. Also mag die Bezeichnung "n/a" (nicht vorhanden) an Stelle des Herausgebers im allgemeinen den Leser nicht beunruhigen. An anderen Stellen wurden die Ausgaben auf folgende Weise identifiziert: man bemerkt entsprechende Auskünfte auf dem Schallplattenumschlag oder auf beigelegten Notizen, man schlägt in früheren Discographien nach, oder man hört einfach der Musik zu und vergleicht dieselbe mit den gedruckten Partituren.

Eine neue, genaue Diskussion der Ausgaben samt einer kurzen, kritischen Discographie erscheint in einem Artikel von Richard Osborne in der englischen Zeitschrift Gramophone (August 1991).

Der Identifizierungsprozeß wird noch komplizierter, da viele Dirigenten Passagen aus mehreren verschiedenen Partituren des gleichen Werks einfügen. Unter solchen Umständen führt man am besten die hauptsächlich gebrauchte Version und deren Herausgeber an. Übrigens versucht man nicht, verhältnismäßig obskure Variationen zu unterscheiden, wie z.B. die 1936 veröffentlichte Ausgabe und die 1944-Ausgabe der von Robert Haas herausgegebenen Partitur der Version 1876 der Sinfonie Nr. 5. Die Kritiker verwenden heute noch einen großen Wortschatz, um die vielen Versionen anzuführen: unter den am häufigsten gebrauchten Ausdrücken sind: ursprüngliche Fassung, endgültige Fassung, erste endgültige Fassung, revidierte Fassung, und Urtext. Obwohl man inskünftig solche Terminologie auf regelmäßiger Art benützen mag, im besonderen da die kritische Gesamtausgabe bald zu Ende gebracht wird, hat der Verfasser sich entschlossen, diese Bezeichnungen alle wegzulassen und an ihrer Stelle einfach das Fertigungsjahr der Fassung und den Familiennamen des Herausgebers zu erwähnen.

Das Dirigenten-Register umfaßt die Chor- und Orchesteraufnahmen und verwendet die oben erwähnten Katalogziffern. Samt dem Werktitel, dem Ensemblenamen und dem Jahre der Aufnahme erscheinen die Geburts- und Todesjahre der Dirigenten. Ein Register der Autoren der Erläuterungen verweist auf die Werktitel, die Erscheinungsdaten der Schallplatten, und die Katalogziffern. Eine Zeittafel stützt sich auf die Aufnahmedaten und bezeichnet den Titel, die Aufführenden und die Katalogziffer. Die Aktivität der verschiedenen Orchester wird durch das Orchester-Register dargelegt.

Trotz der heutigen Neigung vieler Ensembles ihre Namen in der einheimischen Sprache auszudrücken und ausgenommen von Fällen, wie z.B. bei der Staatskapelle Dresden, wobei früher keine englischen Übersetzungen auf Schallplatten erschienen sind, werden solche Bezeichnungen regelmäßig auf eine englische Art gegeben. Ungeachtet der Überfülle an geschäftlichen Verschmelzungen und Erwerbungen unter den Schallplattenunternehmen und trotz des Vertriebs der selben Aufnahmen unter verschiedenen Marken durch internationale, verwandte Firmen, beschränken sich die Schallplattenmarken auf wenige Variationen, welche mit der einzigen Ausnahme von "Deutsche Grammophon" ("DG") unverkürzt erscheinen.

Das Zeitmessen der Aufführungen ist nicht immer präzise, weil man manchmal auf Schwierigkeiten stößt, da der genaue Anfang und das genaue Ende einer Aufnahme sich nicht leicht feststellen lassen. Im allgemeinen beginnt die von dem Verfasser gemessene Dauer mit dem ersten hörbaren Ton und endet mit dem Ersterben des letzten Klangs. Das Beifallklatschen und die Pausen zwischen den Sätzen sind nicht eingeschlossen. In den Fällen, wenn die gemessene Dauer mit den auf dem Schallplattenumschlag oder beigelegten Anmerkungen gedruckten Zeiten nicht übereinstimmt, findet man brauchbare Vermerke.

Obwohl der Verfasser hier ein einfaches und leicht nützliches Nachschlagewerk anstrebt, das keiner längeren Einführung bedarf, folgt eine kurze Liste der gebrauchten Abkürzungen. Allen Lesern wird die Bedeutung der meisten dieser Zeichen hoffentlich selbstverständlich sein oder wenigstens ganz und gar logisch erscheinen. Vorschläge zum Verbessern dieses Katalogs sind höchst willkommen. Richten Sie bitte alle Korrespondenz an den Autor, c/o Fallen Leaf Press, P.O. Box 10034, Berkeley, California 94709, U.S.A.

Die Geduld und die zur Fertigstellung dieser Arbeit notwendige Beratung meiner Herausgeberin Frau Ann Basart verdient hohe Würdigung. Fräulein Eva Einstein und Herr und Frau René Stäldi haben sehr freundlich die deutsche Übersetzung durchgelesen und korrigiert. Danken möchte ich auch meiner Frau Helen für ihren Beistand, auch daß sie mir beim Zeitmessen der Aufnahmen half, und daß sie mich zum Zuhören von etwa fünfzig Aufführungen der Sinfonie Nr. 4 ermutigte.

Obwohl es mir eingefallen war, dem Leser mehrere eigene Empfehlungen über die Aufnahmen darzubieten, habe ich auf solch eine persönliche Befriedigung verzichtet. Um diesen Entschluß möglicherweise zu rechtfertigen, gebe ich hier meine Wahl—gewiß für die Meinung der meisten Kritiker nicht ausschlaggebend—zu der erhabensten Aufnahme der neunten Sinfonie: Zubin Mehta mit den Wiener Philharmonikern. Den Grammophonplattensammlern, den Schallplattenarchivisten, und allen Zuhörern, die die Vielfältigkeit und die Schönheit der Musik Anton Bruckners erlebt haben, widme ich bescheiden diesen Versuch.

I. Allegro, II. Adagio, III. Scherzo: Schnell, Trio: Langsamer, IV. Finale: Bewegt, feurig. Composed in Linz in 1866 and revised in Vienna in 1891. The score published in 1893 of the Vienna revision is unreliable, whereas the Haas and Nowak editions of both versions are accepted as accurate.

I. Moderato, II. Andante, III. Scherzo: Mäßig schnell, Trio: Gleiches Tempo, IV. Finale: Mehr schnell. Composed in Vienna in 1872 and revised in 1876 and 1877 at the suggestion and possibly with the help of Johann Herbeck. Deryck Cooke recommends the score of the 1872 version edited by Haas on the grounds that Nowak's edition contains elements of Herbeck's excessive influence.

Symphony No. 3 in d minor (WAB 103, G/A 95)

I. Gemäßigt, misterioso, II. Adagio, Feierlich, III. Scherzo: Ziemlich schnell, Trio: Gleiches Zeitmaß, IV. Finale: Allegro (version of 1873). Composed in Vienna in 1873 and revised in 1874, 1877, and 1889. The earliest published score was of the 1877 version. This was followed by Franz Schalk's edition of 1889, the Fritz Oeser edition of the 1877 version, and by Hans Redlich's edition of the 1889 version. Nowak edited versions dated 1873, 1877 and 1889 as well as an alternate form of the Adagio dated 1876. Deryck Cooke cites the deleterious influence of Franz Schalk on the later revisions. Significant differences exist among these editions, a discussion of which can be found in Richard Osborne's article in Gramophone (August 1991), Deryck Cooke's The Bruckner Problem Simplified, and in the prefaces to the Bruckner Edition scores by Leopold Nowak.

Symphony No. 4 in E flat Major (WAB 104, G/A 96)

I. Bewegt, nicht zu schnell, II. Andante, quasi Allegretto, III. Scherzo: Bewegt, Trio: Nicht zu schnell, keinesfalls schleppend, IV. Finale: Bewegt, doch nicht zu schnell (1880 version). Composed in Vienna in 1874, revised 1877-78 with a new Scherzo and again in 1880 with a new Finale. Bruckner issued a performing version in 1886. The first published edition was completed by Franz Schalk and Ferdinand Löwe in 1887, was reprinted several times, and is generally discredited. Hans Redlich edited the Schalk and Löwe score for a new printing in 1954. The edition by Robert Haas is based on the 1880 version, while Leopold Nowak edited the versions of 1874 and 1877-78 (with the Finale of 1880) and published the 1878 Finale separately.

Symphony No. 5 in B flat Major (WAB 105, G/A 97)

I. Introduction: Adagio, Allegro, II. Adagio, Sehr langsam, III. Scherzo: Molto vivace (Schnell), Trio: Im gleichen Tempo, IV. Finale: Adagio, Allegro. Composed in Vienna in 1876 and slightly revised in 1878. Franz Schalk edited the first published score in 1893 with significant alterations. Robert Haas published two slightly different versions of the 1876 score in 1936 and in 1944. The Nowak edition of the 1878 score appeared in 1951.

Symphony No. 8 in c minor (WAB 108, G/A 118)

I. Allegro moderato, II. Scherzo: Allegro moderato, Trio: Allegro moderato, III. Adagio: Feierlich langsam, doch nicht schleppend, IV. Finale: Feierlich, nicht schnell [1887 version]. The first version was composed in Vienna in 1887 and was revised with the aid of Josef Schalk in 1890. This revision was published in 1892 with further editing by Schalk. Both the 1887 and the 1890 versions are available in editions by Leopold Nowak, while Robert Haas edited a score which drew upon both versions, in an effort to discern and to synthesize Bruckner's original intentions.

Symphony No. 9 in d minor (WAB 109, G/A 124)

I. Feierlich, misterioso, II. Scherzo: Bewegt, lebhaft, Trio: Schnell, III. Adagio: Langsam, feierlich. Composed in Vienna in 1894 and left with the Finale unfinished at Bruckner's death in 1896. There are two recorded completions of the Finale, but most performances conclude with the Adagio. The symphony was never revised by Bruckner, however Ferdinand Löwe edited the first published score in 1903, which contained significant alterations. Later editions by Alfred Orel and Leopold Nowak are accurate and nearly identical.
